Dear Miss Florman:

This is in reply to your request dated 19 October 1960 for a 1 February 1961
specimen copy of the "Consolidated Translation Survey."

The CTS is published by the Central Intelligence Agency, it is a monthly, there is no subscription price because it is not for sale, it contains a listing of translations on economic, political, military, geographic, sociological, and biographic subjects prepared by Government agencies as well as private firms. The translations produced by the Government agencies are not generally available to the public direct from the source agencies.

Many of the translations in the scientific and technical field referred to in the CTS are in fact passed to the Office of Technical Services of the Department of Commerce and hence available to the public indirectly. The Office of Technical Services publishes "Technical Translations," a bi-monthly listing of translated technical literature available from the CTS, the Library of Congress, the Special Libraries Association, cooperating foreign governments, commercial translators and publishers, universities and other sources. Possibly this publication would satisfy your requirement.

While the Central Intelligence Agency is not authorized to disseminate the CTS to the public, we do make it available to the Library of Congress, which in turn makes it available to the public through its Photo Duplication Service.

Sincerely,

Paul A. Borel
Assistant Director
